Fact vs Fiction: How to Earn Credibility in the Misinformation Era

Venue: Björtuloft, Harpa

In cooperation with CBS News

From deep fakes to state-sponsored misinformation campaigns, facts are under assault. According to the 2019 Edelman Trust Barometer, "my employer" is significantly more trusted than NGOs, business, government and media. This frank and informative session will focus on facts, featuring global leaders and experts on building trust and earning credibility in today's complex landscape. Can we rebalance the trust equation? Is polarization as entrenched as it seems? In this session, let's discuss together how we can start a new conversation.

Striving for zero – how companies eliminate the gender pay gap

Venue: Stemma, Harpa

In cooperation with Fair Pay Innovation Lab (FPI)

The gender pay gap persists around the world. The causes are complex and cumulate in a vicious circle of money and power to the detriment of women. Unequal pay is exacerbated by a lack of transparency in salaries and the reluctance of companies to analyze their pay structures. In the LeadersTalk, we demystify common misconceptions and present a dashboard that companies can utilize to assess their gender wage gap toward the larger purpose of crystallizing the problem and thus the solution. Momentum toward closing the wage gap is building globally. So get ready! Fair pay is just around the corner.

- Henrike von Platen, CEO/ Founder, FPI Fair Pay Innovation Lab
- Angela Todisco, Head of Human Resources EMEA North, SAP SE

10.40 - 12.00

Resilience

Venue: Kaldalón, Harpa

In cooperation with the Harvard Kennedy School

How do leaders renew and refresh? With women facing differential challenges in leadership positions – whether political office, corporate life, or board service – threats to personal integrity and strength can affect one's ability to thrive and deliver. Research shows that women leaders in the public eye are more prone to the challenges pushed at them, relative to their male counterparts. With that, what are some effective strategies for building resilience? Come prepared to reflect on what resilience means to you, to share strategies and ask questions about the ability to recover from setbacks, and to learn what you can do to build physical, emotional, and career resilience.

- Victoria Budson, Founding Executive Director of the Women and Public Policy Program, Harvard Kennedy School of Government
- Maggie MacDonnell, M.Sc., Global Teacher Prize, Varkey Foundation, Young Global Leader, World Economic Forum
- Sarah Adowa Safo, Minister of State in charge of Public Procurement, Member of Parliament and Deputy Majority Leader of the Parliament of Ghana

What works to support women's careers?

Venue: Rima B, Harpa

In cooperation with King's College-Global Institute for Women's Leadership

The Global Institute for Women's Leadership (GIWL) will soon launch its 'What Works' research programme. This research will seek to uncover what works to support women's retention and career progression through a mixed-methods approach including randomised controlled trials (RCTs) and rapid ethnography. This session will give an overview of the research including details of our current pilot study with a large retail organisation in the UK. Ideally, we will include a case-study from one of the Women Leaders Global Forum's conversationists who will outline a measure which has impacted on women's careers in their organisation. We would also like the leaders in attendance to share their perspectives on what has and has not worked to foster women's careers in their organisations.

Gender Equality in the Defence and Security sector

Venue: Norðurbryggja, Harpa

In cooperation with The Metropolitan Police & Capacent

We tell the story of the cooperation of Capacent and the Reykjavik Metropolitan Police which to our knowledge is the only example globally of such an in depth project regarding gender equality and the police force. Mrs. Gudjonsdottir is the first female chief of the Metropolitan police and will share her experience, being a woman leader in a male oriented environment. How is it to address the issue of gender in such an environment? Where do you find resistance and where do you experience appreciation? Is the police force ready for this conversation? The Gender Equality Roadmap was the vehicle for the journey, a tool to identify, expose and purge biases within organizations. Capacent's approach is quite unconventional using the methodology of Design Thinking where the main focus is on empathy and uses drawings, role-playing and videos to raise awareness in a way that encourages participation and understanding.

- Thorey Vilhjálmsdóttir, Director, Capacent
- Sigríður Björk Guðjónsdóttir, Chief of Reykjavík Metropolitan Police

GENERATION EQUALITY

Venue: Silfurberg, Harpa

The year 2020 will mark the 25th anniversary of the Beijing Declaration and Platform for Action of 1995, the visionary agenda -- endorsed by 189 governments -- for the human rights of women and girls everywhere. UN Women's "Generation Equality" campaign demands equal pay, equal sharing of unpaid care and domestic work, an end to sexual harassment and violence against women and girls, health care services that respond to their needs, and their equal participation in political life and in decision-making in all areas of life. This session will consider the progress made since 1995 and the work that still needs to be done.

GENERATION DISRUPTED: EARNING TRUST, FINDING MEANING & BUILDING SKILLS

Venue: Silfurberg, Harpa

Millennials and Gen Zs now make up half of the earth's population. Together, they account for most of the global workforce. What they think, believe, buy and do or don't do is disrupting old norms and transforming society. Growing up in a world of accelerated transformation leaves millennials and Gen Zs feeling unsettled about the future. Despite global economic growth, expansion and opportunity, younger generations are wary about the world and their place in it. This uncertainty is reflected in their personal views on business, government, leadership and the need for positive societal change agents. But they remain hopeful and lean on their values as both consumers and employees.

This panel discussion will address the urgent need for business and government to work collaboratively to support and empower gen Z and millennials. How will business and government bear the shared social responsibility to prepare the next generation of young people for the future? How can they empower women and girls? How can institutions join forces to regain the trust of this critical cohort and future through education, skills-building initiatives and beyond.

Conversationists include:

Women as Catalysts - The Future of Feminism

Venue: Rima A, Harpa

In cooperation with ICEFEM

The success of Iceland when it comes to gender equality is mainly the work of the women's movements, who have fought for women's rights and a fair society for decades. Nevertheless, Iceland, as the rest of the world, is facing enormous challenges. Women must defend their rights and find ways to continue successfully? How can the Icelandic Women's Movements enhance sisterhood, solidarity and actions across political and social lines? What can we learn from our past history? How can feminist thought and activism contribute in solving the problems facing the world? How can we break down racist, patriarchal structures oppressing women and minorities? How can we change the dominating cultures that tolerate violence against women? How can we confront militarism that threatens the lives of millions? Last but not least, how can we stop climate change? We want to discuss this with women from all over the world.

In this session we will discuss how organisations have been trying to answer this question, the pros and cons of each approach and the Integrated Diversity Framework will be presented. Using the framework, some high impact actions such as Reverse Mentoring, Business Case Formulation, High Impact Rituals, etc. will be identified and experience will be shared on how to make them work.
